Missael Ponce

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am a Game & Multiplatform Developer with hands-on experience in Unity (2D/3D), Android development, and live game operations.

Alongside production support, I apply my development skills by automating workflows with Python, working with SQL, and supporting internal tools. My technical background includes C#, Java, Kotlin, Python, Unity and cross-platform development, allowing me to operate comfortably across game development, application development and live operations.

Previously, I worked as a QA Tester and LiveOps / Trainee system engineer, collaborating closely with developers to improve quality and support smooth releases. Combined with my Multiplatform Application Development studies, this has given me a strong foundation in cross-platform systems, databases, version control and fluid workflows.

I am proactive, reliable and calm under pressure, with a strong problem-solving mindset and a clear motivation to grow while contributing real value in mixed technical roles combining development and live game services.
